

Cell Phone Reporting Solution for the Security Industry

Real-Link Security Manager is an information and reporting application that provides real-time communication between the security force and operations. Up-to-date site and task information is delivered to the Security Guards as they perform their duties, and immediate feedback is provided to Operations through our web-based reporting tool.

A variety of technologies such as NFC (near-field communication) cell phones and RFID (radio frequency identification) tags are utilized by Real-Link Security Manager. Important information is captured easily such as the current location of the security force, tasks completed at each client site, status of tours, etc. This information can be easily integrated to any other system for further processing and analysis, or may be viewed from the Real-Link web based reporting application.

How does Real-Link Security Manager work?

Guard carries NFC-enabled mobile phone containing Real-Link application.

Guard visits locations (office, warehouse, customer, vehicle, etc) that have pre-positioned RFID tags

Touches tag with phone, which identifies who and where they are

Cell Phone displays a set of location-sensitive options that guard chooses from – may be a simple list of choices, or a data entry request (job number, mileage, status, etc.)

Alternatively there is the touch and go option, simply touch the tag.

All data is immediately transmitted via cell phone network in real-time .
